

Kling & Bang internship

Kling & Bang is looking for a reliable, enthusiastic person to join us as we re-open our gallery in its new house, The Marshall-house, sharing the building with The Living Art Museum, Ólafur Elíasson and a new restaurant.

Kling & Bang is a non-profit artist-run space established by ten artists in the beginning of 2003, a noticeably long life span for an artist-run space in Iceland. The aim of Kling & Bang gallery is to introduce emerging and established, national and international artists and their works that challenge the context and content of creative thinking. Kling & Bang often collaborates with outside curators and galleries on various projects. Kling & Bang also often participates directly in the process of creating the artworks e.g. producing the works and collaborating with the exhibitors. All board-members of Kling & Bang work as volunteers.

In March 2017, Kling & Bang will open a new exhibition and project space in The Marshall House in Grandi Harbour Area in Reykjavík. Kling & Bang will continue its vision of hosting ambitious exhibitions and programs. On the horizon there are exhibitions of artists having their first public shows as well as exhibitions of acclaimed local and international artists.

We are looking for a committed and proactive person to join us at this pivotal moment. An enthusiastic and motivated front of house staff to join our team. Your major role will be to welcome our visitors to Kling & Bang as well as to support activities or events. You will oversee the artwork on display, assist during installation and the take-down of an exhibition as well as participating in light general housekeeping. These are all tasks that current members of Kling & Bang take on as well (all as volunteers). The duration is preferably 2 - 4 months (ca 18 hours a week) which should give you a detailed insight into the making and take-down of an exhibition, as well as the complex operations of an artist-run space.

Speaking English is required.

Kling & Bang is looking for interns throughout the year. All intern positions are unpaid. We specifically encourage those curious about starting and running an artist-run space to apply!
